A Little Girl

Shot at Coleman

On Sunday evening last little Cimome Vandulin, aged 4 years, received a rifle bullet in the left shoulder and is now in a very precarious condition, but very little hope is held out for her recovery.

It is alleged that John Ryppin did the shooting after being requested to leave the house in which the unfortunate girl and her mother were living. Ryppin was arrested and on Tuesday evening received his preliminary hearing before Justice Belcher. The accused was taken to Macleod on Wednesday where he now awaits trial at the next sitting of the supreme court.

Blairmore Water Works Will Be Extended

At the meeting of the town council held on Monday night last it was thought advisable to extend the water works to many parts of the town which so far have not enjoyed the privilege of turning the tap and helping themselves to the crystal liquid. Elaborate plans and specifications which had been prepared by Messrs. Woods & Steele, were very carefully gone over and the matter was freely discussed. The same subject will come up for further consideration at future meetings and in all probability work on the many proposed extensions will be proceeded with in the course of the next four or six weeks.

The extensions which the council have now under consideration are as follows: Dearborn street, from 3rd ave. to 8th ave.; Main street, from 8th ave. to 10th ave.; Madawaska street, from 8th ave. to 10 ave.; Cement street, from 10th ave. to 12th ave.; Victoria street, from 12 ave. to 14th ave. east; Stuart street, from 6th ave. to 9th ave. east; Stuart street, from 1st ave. to 4th ave. west; First avenue, from Victoria st. to State st., and Fourth avenue west, from Victoria st to State st.

The Old Man Tries to Beat the Mississippi

The heavy rains of last Friday and Saturday caused the Old Man river to rise eleven inches and early on Saturday it threatened to over-flow its banks but the cold winds which blew down from the North-West in the forenoon and which continued until "darkness over-shadowed the earth," checked the flow of snow water on its way from the mountain peaks and thereby prevented an inundation. What the Mississippi river is to the Old Man—its chief branch, and is consequently the main source of trouble. York river was not satisfied in supplying Blairmore with water for domestic use on Sunday last—and considering that the bars were closed, as they always are, on that day there was a big demand for the mountain liquid—but it broke loose, rushed madly out to the Old Man river and in its wild course invited many smaller streams to assist in its destructive work.

About a year ago this river which skirts our town, got as restless as a fly in a vinegar-crust and became harder on its banks than a "cashier with a weakness for society" and did some little damage to property in this neighborhood.

WRIT SERVED ON COUNCIL

W. A. Malcolm Takes Legal Proceedings to Recover $1300 From the Town.

STILL DISPUTE FIRE HALL SITE.

Hotels Ask for Reduction in Water Rates but Do Not Promise Cheaper Whiskey.

The postponed meeting of the Blairmore town council was held in the Beebe block on Monday evening last. Mayor Lyon and Councillors McLeod, Sinclair, Dutil, Farmer and Chestnut were present. A large number of spectators graced the back seats.

The first business was the reading of a communication from the town solicitor in which it was stated that the council should pass a by-law before accepting the property offered by W. A. Malcolm for a fire hall site.

Farmer-Dutil—That a by-law dealing with the fire hall site, be drawn up and submitted to the council. Carried.

At this juncture the mayor stated that legal proceedings had been taken by W. A. Malcolm to compel the council to immediately pay for the property which that body had accepted several weeks ago, and that he (the mayor) had been served with a writ. This document was produced and read by the secretary. It was very nicely gotten up and was wistfully eyed by some who evidently had never seen an article of that sort before.

Councillor Farmer remarked: "It seems strange to me that when the matter of those lots was first brought up the mayor and all the councillors agreed that the price asked was reasonable. Other lots were offered and considered at the same time Mr. Malcolm's were but the latter's property was considered to be the best by all the council but now some object to accepting same."

Councillor McLeod made the following statement: "I do not see how we can get out of the paying of Mr. Malcolm for his property. The matter of accepting Mr. Malcolm's property was brought up at a full meeting of the council and everybody agreed to the acceptance of lots offered by the said gentleman. We should have a lawyer at these meetings and I would suggest that we engage one of our local legal authorities to act as solicitor for us."

Councillor Dutil added briefly: "I fear that we are not doing things in business like way a proof of which is the issuing of the writ."

Councillor Sinclair stated. "If there is anything wrong in the acceptance of Mr. Malcolm's lots the mistake was made at the outset and every member of the council is equally responsible."

McLeod-Dutil—That no defence be entered to the action brought against the town by Mr. W. A. Malcolm to compel the carrying out of the agreement with the town of Blairmore to purchase lots 19 and 20, in block 15, plan 3319,

Lake's Claim Settled— Croakers had Poor Guess

An agreement has been reached by the town of Blairmore and Robert Lake whereby the latter relinquishes all his rights and claims on the much-disputed water works property for the sum of $816.62. The sum covers all costs and every claim whatever that Mr. Lake had on the property, and the transfer has been made. Those wisecracks who a few months ago were ridiculing the old council and claiming that Mr. Lake would recover damages to the amount of several thousand dollars from the town of Blairmore, had better take a back seat and ponder over their misjudgment.

I. Blairmore, at the price of $1800.00 according to his written offer of December 4th, 1911. Carried.

The Alberta and Blairmore hotels wrote asking the council for a reduction in water rates and for a flat rate for their places of business. Councillor Dutil did not favor giving one class of people a reduction and not extend the same to others; all the councillors agreed on that point and the request was not granted.

T. Ede, solicitor, acting for J. Little, wrote requesting the council to complete fencing the cemetery. The council promised to look into the matter.

Anderson & Co., auditors, offered to audit the books for the sum of $150.00 per year. Councillor Farmer thought that the price asked for was too high, and the matter was laid over.

Dr. Baker informed the council that he would not act as health officer for less than an annuity of $250.00. His communication was ordered filed.

The contract of E. Morino to connect the water pipes with main dam and to complete the work in connection with same, was accepted.

The following bills were read and ordered paid: J. R. Irwin, $100; W. L. Shera, $80; R. M. Cement Co., $2; Bartlett & Barrett, $15; Dawson & Green, $; F. W. Doubt, $49.50; Blairmore Hardware Co., $8.75; Blairmore Hardware Co., $5; F. W. Doubt, $2.50; Ross and Warren, $109.65; Alberta Telephone Co., 20c; Winnipeg Rubber Co., $502; and W. A. Beebe, $20. A bill from McLeod & Gray, for $84.65, was also read but the bill was disputed and was ordered to be laid over.

It was decided to hold the court of revision on Tuesday, July 16th. Councillor Dutil gave notice "that at the next regular meeting of the town council I will introduce a by-law authorizing the purchase of lots Nos. 19 and 20, in block No. 15, plan 3319, I. Blairmore, at the price of $1,800.00 for the purpose and benefit of the town, for the construction and building of a fire hall thereon as a public works for the benefit of the municipality, and that the sum of $1,800.00 be paid to Mr. W. A. Malcolm upon the title to such lots being found satisfactory and a proper transfer executed."

The meeting adjourned at 10.30 to meet on the following Monday.

Quite a number of invitations to the ball, which will be held at the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium of Friday evening of this week, have been received by the dancing fraternity of Blairmore and we understand that a large number from this town will be in attendance at that social function.

The local branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union gave an ice cream and strawberry festival on the green, near Mr. Pinkney's residence, at the west end of Blairmore on Wednesday afternoon of this week by which a fairly large sum of money was raised to help carry on the work in this part of the field.

Felice Drouard was up before Justice Pinkney on Monday evening charged with having used insulting language on Mademoiselle C. Allard and J. Delcoux. In the former case the Italian had to pay $3.00 fine and $3.00 costs and in the latter case the fine was repeated while the costs amounted to $3.75. After relieving himself of $12.75, the man from Sunny Italy promised to be more polite on future occasions.

The Ladies' Aid of First Presbyterian church will hold a bazaar in the Mission hall on Thursday next, commencing at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and continuing until 10 p.m. The good ladies have been busy preparing for this big sale during the past month and they have achieved great success in manufacturing fancy and useful articles such as never before offered to the citizens of The Pass. Refreshments will be served during the whole time the sale is in progress. Proceeds will go towards the building fund. Everybody is invited admission absolutely free.

"Bob" Fitzsimmons will appear at the local opera house, in a play entitled "A Fight for Love," on July 11th. As many of our readers know, "Bob" fought and won more flat combats than any other man alive and for several years was the champion pugilist of the world. The writer has seen the ex-champion take the leading role in high-class plays and believes that those who attend the opera house on 11th proximo will not be disappointed.

"Clarence Brisco, known as the "Kid Doctor" in variety circles, Toronto, has successfully passed his fourth year examination for medicine at the university. Mr. Brisco intends to spend the summer with his mother and a brother in Chatham. As a student Mr. Brisco has been something of a wonder. He did the public school course in two years and passed his entrance examination. At sixteen he entered the university and has successfully passed his examination each year. By the time he is twenty-one, if nothing happens, he will have completed his five year medical course. Mr. Brisco is the youngest fourth year student in the province." The foregoing is taken from the Chatham Planet and the young man referred to is a brother of R. M. Brisco of this town. Clarence has always met with great success as a student, and if he is successful at the next medical examinations he will be the youngest person holding a medical certificate in this Dominion.

A goodly number was in attendance and everybody seemed well pleased. The proceeds will go towards the maintenance of the church of England work in this town.

The New International Anthem

Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Montreal: "Reciprocity was opposed in the States as much as in Canada. The American lumbermen, farmers and fishermen opposed it as strongly as the Canadian Tories. Moreover, it is an open secret that during the heat of the contest when every nerve was strained, to win, the special interests in the United States joined hands with those in Canada to defeat reciprocity, and sang lustily 'God Save the King,' while they whispered to each other 'God save our monopolies and trusts.'"

Erratum

In our report of the council meeting, which appears elsewhere in this issue, we should have stated that Councillor Farmer said the following: "It is very evident that we are paying too much for Mr. Malcolm's lots or he would not be taking action to recover the payment of said property at this early stage of the game." The mistake was made by our compositor and was not discovered until that part of the paper was printed. Councillor Chestnut made the statement: "It seems strange to me," etc., as appears after Councillor Farmer's name in our report.

New Principal for Blairmore

At a meeting of the school board held on Tuesday evening last that body decided to engage Mr. J. W. Varge as principal of the public school. Mr. Varge is at present assistant principal of the public school at Raymond, where there is a staff of ten teachers. He is a teacher of rare ability, and the local school board is very fortunate in securing his services. The new principal's duties will commence immediately after the holidays, when Blairmore's chief institution of learning will have a staff of six teachers.

It Pays to Advertise

A little while ago a party lost a bunch of keys and came to our office with copy of an advertisement which we inserted, inside of twenty minutes after the circulation of our first copies the keys were returned to the owner.

Better still—last week a resident of Blairmore lost a time sheet and book of receipts. He came to our office yesterday to advertise for them, and two hours before we went to press the lost articles were restored to the owner. Sure, it pays to advertise!

Frank Has Not Moved

In support of what we said in our last week's issue regarding the damaging and false report of the situation at Frank, as published in the Lethbridge Herald, the next publication of the News-Telegram has the following to say:

"The residents of Frank are very indignant at a report which appeared in a Lethbridge daily to the effect that all the inhabitants had moved over to the townsite which has been chosen for the site of the new city."

"A well known business man of Frank, who was in this city on Thursday, says that as a matter of fact not one of the residents has left, and that there is no prospect of any of them leaving for an indefinite period, as they are unable to bear the expense entailed."

"It will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $100,000 to move the city and the residents have not the least intention of leaving till they are assisted by the government. They received an offer from the provincial government which they regard as quite inadequate, and the further offer of $20,000, made conditionally upon the Dominion government supplying another $40,000, they still think is insufficient."

Pen Pictures

It is probable that no institution in the Dominion of Canada comes into touch with so large a number of persons who have made imprudent investments as does the Annuities Branch of the Post Office Department. It is understood that hardly a day passes that several communications are not received and writers bewail the loss of money invested in some scheme that promises phenomenal dividends or returns. One of the saddest of these cases is that of a lady who about three years ago acquired as to the cost of an Annuity of $603. The information was promptly given to purchase but was not embraced. She believed she could invest her money to better advantage, and that by the time she attained her 55th birthday she would not only have enough to pay for the Annuity, outright, but a little fortune besides. This week another letter has been received from the same lady, who, by the way, is now over 61½ years of age, which furnishes the sequel to the story. She says, "I have spent my savings on worthless stocks, believing that I would soon be rich. I would not listen to advice, convinced that I knew best. I wonder at my foolishness now, to waste my all in schemes I knew nothing about. For some time I had a large salary and gave to certain companies every month. Now that they have turned out worthless, I see how crazy and wrong it was. I am sorry if ever anyone was sorry for what I have done, but nothing will bring back what I have wasted." Her case is a pathetic one, and her experience has been exactly, but it is the common experience of many who tried Get-Rich-Quick schemes.

In the same month of the same year (1909) another lady enquired as to the cost of a Government Annuity. She, too, had saved a nice little sum for the "Rainy Day" as the result of her own labours. She began payments, starting with a lump sum, and continuing monthly payments with a view to purchasing the same amount of Annuity to begin at the same age (55). In the course of time she became afflicted with a malady, which, though not fatal, incapacitated her from earning a livelihood. Under the terms of the Act she was entitled to have her contract converted into an Immediate Annuity contract. She had this done, and is now receiving, and will receive as long as she lives, an Annuity of over $212. It is doubtful if there is a more satisfied woman in all Canada.

The Annuities System does not promise to give something for nothing, and no benefits can be received which are not paid for; but it does promise to give a return, and with the security of the Government of Canada behind it, greater than can be obtained from the investment of the same amounts in any other manner. "World's Work" says: "It is the Savings Bank, the Insurance Company, and the Government Bond rolled into one in a shape adapted to the smallest of depositors." Postmasters will furnish you literature descriptive of this marvelous system of investment, or you may obtain the information desired by writing to the Superintendent of Annuities, Ottawa, to whom your letter will go free of postage.

The first Hindu child born in Canada made its appearance at Vancouver on Friday last, 13 days after the first Hindu arrest in Blairmore.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY FOR LIVE INVESTORS

Lake City

Is the name of the Western Terminal Point of the proposed Crow's Nest Pass Electric Railway and is already tapped by the Pass line of the C. P. R., while the G. N. R. has already approached to within a few score of miles and must eventually pass through this admirably located town.

Lake City

Is located by the shore of Crow's Nest Lake, only a few miles east of the provincial boundary between Alberta and British Columbia, and just north of the international line. In reality, it is at the top of Canada where the majestic Rockies tower in serene magnificence over great chasms and numerous floods, reflecting their presence on the waters of this beautiful lake. Here also are afforded the very best tasks for the daring mountain climber and for hunters who desire to outlive the quiet ways of the Rocky Mountain goat, sheep, deer or elk, which are the monarchy thereon. In close proximity are numerous timber, mineral and fuel resources, development of which is now in its initial stages. These resources include gold quartz, coal, iron and pulp wood. Crow's Nest Lake has long been looked upon with promise as an admirable location for health and tourist resorts, and but now this promise is being realized. Plans for hotels, etc. are being arranged, as well as boat houses, and the most modern pleasure yaws will soon glide over the surface of this beautiful lake.

The Cyclone Cure

A Case Requiring a Severe Medicine

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"I'll never give in," declared Jeremiah Butterfield grimly.

"And I'll never give in," affirmed his wife Eva just as grimly.

"You are obstinate as a mule," snarled Jeremiah.

"And you are ugly as sin," retorted Eva.

"We might as well give up this cat and dog life."

"I for one would be glad to experience a peaceful existence."

The result of this mutual disagreement was that the Butterfields separated and went to live at opposite ends of Bluestemville in the cyclone belt.

Jeremiah took as his share of their mutual possessions all the farm implements and stock and the worst furniture of the household.

Eva was content with the rest of the household furniture and the fat carriage horse and a little phanton.

Jeremiah went to farm on his own, and the only thing he knew how to do, and his wife opened a summer boarding house because she could cook better than anybody in the town.

She called her new home the Blue Villa, as she called her old home.

Because Jeremiah stuck to his farming he marketed his crops promptly and placed money in the bank every month.

He soon became prosperous, but he was not happy. Every time he walked over his broad acres and saw the tiled land and the green growing crops and the comfortable green painted farmhouse, with the red painted barns and outbuildings, he tried to feel proud and satisfied, but he only succeeded in suppressing a pang of sorrow at the thought that he had parted from Eva, whom he really loved after all.

As for Eva, her house was filled each summer with city people, who praised her cooking and said that nowhere in the world had they tasted such delicious homemade bread and biscuits, such light cake, such toothsome apple pies and doughnuts.

Mrs. Butterfield would not mind the loss of her husband if she could keep the acknowledgment of their compliments, and that was all, for she cared not a whit for the praise of any man or woman save that which she could use to her own advantage.

Jeremiah in her capacity of housekeeper for the lone farmer.

"I'll never give in," she said obstinately, though her face showed every time she made an apple pie, and she vaguely wondered what sort of food the Widow Bentley was serving Jeremiah in her capacity of housekeeper for the lone farmer.

"I'll not give in," was Jeremiah's reply, and he was as obstinate as a mule, and he wrinkled his forehead at his eyes and the hair on his temples became gray.

Of course they were foolish, and as it often happens in cases of this kind, fate stepped in and settled their difficulties in the strangest sort of way.

"Working up to a storm," wheezed the Widow Bentley one afternoon as she met Jeremiah in the front piazza when he came up from the fields. She was big and ponderous, and in a temper that brooked no contradiction even in matters of small importance, and Jeremiah Butterfield had learned that the easiest way to get along with this housekeeper was to acquiesce in everything she had to say.

"Yes, yes," he said placidly, fixing a doubtful eye on the clear pale blue of the sky and the glorious orange and crimson of the sunset.

"I feel it coming in my bones!"

whereas Mrs. Bentley once more, sinking heavily into a rocking chair. "It looks clear enough now, but mark my words, we'll have trouble before to-morrow night."

"I guess you're right, Mrs. Bentley," agreed Jeremiah pleasantly. "We might as well get snugged up for a storm. I had you a pretty good weather prophet."

Mrs. Bentley nodded her head assent. "It's to be the kind that makes you glad you've got a good cyclone cellar," she said significantly.

"Cyclone?" repeated Jeremiah incredulously. "This isn't cyclone weather."

"The Widow Bentley's brow darkened, and she arose and shook her white apron at the recalcitrant boy. "I wasn't born and raised in the cyclone belt without knowing something about cyclones," she said, with dignity, and drew out for the kitchen, where she could be heard preparing the evening meal to the accompaniment of clattering crockery and rattling pans.

"I've gone and put my foot in it now," mused Jeremiah as he fed his horse for the night.

With a sigh he knew it before I engaged her. It's easier hiring a housekeeper than it is getting rid of one. Cyclone!"

It had been a carefree day, and the setting of the sun brought some relief to the overworked earth. Now light, fleecy clouds showed high in the heavens, and over to the northwest a low rim of black clouds bordered the horizon.

"I don't know but what the widow was right after all," admitted Jeremiah Butterfield as he went to supper, and he told Mrs. Bentley this.

She smiled triumphantly, the housekeeper smiled triumphantly, the supper was eloquent of her displeasure. The baked beans were too salty, and the biscuits had received an overdose of saleratus and were consequently bitter.

The apple sauce was sickly sweet and flavored with cinnamon when Jeremiah preferred nutmeg. But he ate what he could of the meal and tried to get some rest, and so he felt to thinking about Eva, his wife, and to wonder if she missed him as much as he missed her.

It was a sultry night, and the morning sun shined down threateningly. The cattle hung about the gate to the pasture and refused to eat. Even the chickens seemed to feel some impediment to their usual activity. The wind died in corners, and some of them went to roost as the day grew darker.

Jeremiah went in and out of the house several times, and each time he passed through the hall he noticed that Mrs. Bentley was neglecting the usual duties of her office.

Once when she was struggling down the stairs with a huge feather bed in her arms he came up to her assistance and she laid down to the cellar and from there to that deep cellar which had been prepared for cases of emergency.

The cyclone cellar was a small apartment, cemented all over, and now it was crowded with the possessions of Jeremiah Butterfield's housekeeper. Her trunk and chest were piled on the floor, and a small mountain of chairs piled with clothing and boxes.

A bridge with his little occupant, looking cheerily up from a stool on a chair, together with a young rubber plant, which Mrs. Bentley was going to discard to maturity. A lantern hung from a hook in one corner.

"You going to come down here before dark?" asked Jeremiah in a matter-of-fact way.

"I'll be there to-morrow when the cyclone strikes," said the widow courageously. "I hope you'll have sense enough to let the cattle take care of themselves and come down here, too."

"I got to look out for my stock," said Jeremiah stoutly.

Once or twice he looked at the barometer and saw that it was rising rapidly. Then the wind came, light at first and steadily increasing in velocity until it might have registered ten miles an hour. Matters looked serious enough. Mrs. Bentley had retired to the cyclone cellar and pulled the trapdoor down after her.

Jeremiah stood outside watching for the funnel shaped cloud that must come out of the northwest if they were really going to have a cyclone. He had hosed all his horses and cattle and hoped that the path of destruction might not be laid in line of his house and barn.

His standing crops in the field and the corn in the field were safe, but the approaching storm would meet with resistance. His water tanks were overflowing now and the mill race would be run any longer. There was only one thing to do. Jeremiah hastened to the room under the lower and moved the lever that caused the blades of the big circular fan. But something was the matter, and he went outside and looked up the ladder he had broken loose.

One of the blades had broken loose and was lying on the ground. The lever that caused the blades to revolve was broken, and he was unable to control the big fan unless one released the broken blade and so gave the lever an upward jerk to do its duty.

In a trice Jeremiah was climbing up the narrow iron ladder that led to the platform under the whirling fan. For the moment he had forgotten the coming storm, and had not seen the funnel shaped cloud swirling down upon him. Just as he reached the platform the wind whirled itself upon the storm.

something snapped in the deafening disturbance that followed. Jeremiah knew that it was part of the windmill and that he was also clinging to it by main strength as the blades were whirled into the center of the circular windstorm and borne along at a velocity of forty miles an hour.

The storm was a great mound of soft hay. What became of the platform he never knew. When he recovered consciousness his wife, Eva, was bending over him and crying because she thought he was dead.

"Where am I?" demanded Jeremiah, sitting up and looking around at the cloudless sky and then down at the haystack on which he sat. When he saw his wife he really thought he had died and gone to the other world.

Then Eva told him his incredible story how the cyclone had brushed the edge of her property and that the house was unroofed and the hay he was sitting on and which had undoubtedly saved his life had come from her own vanished barn. The fat carriage horse was dead and her chickens had disappeared from Lila's Villa.

"We will have to begin all over again, Eva," said Jeremiah firmly.

"We can sell the two places and buy one in California. I'm sure the Widow Bentley would like to buy Lila's Villa, and maybe if she stays in the cyclone belt long enough she'll get caught in one and lose her bad temper."

"The cyclone crew us, didn't it, Jerry?" whistled Eva as she kissed her husband's gray hair.

Parent-Is my boy precocious, do you think?"

"Indeed! How are they getting on?"

Unreasonable Restraint.

A wag, entering an empty railway compartment lately, happened to notice a lady sitting in the corner.

"What a lovely dress!" he said, looking at the next station an old country dame got in and seated herself.

"A very heavy storm of rain now came on and when the train drew up at the next station the good lady looked so anxious that the window.

After a short stay the train again started on its way, to the old lady's amazement.

"Turn's a purty coo, sir," she said, turning toward the "heartless" woman, who was smiling at her.

"Why won't they let me get out when it rains?" London Times.

Premature.

Senator Tillman, with his accustomed urbanity, was submitting to an interview in Washington. One question, however, caused him to say with a laugh:

"Oh, that question is premature. It's like the remark of the Tommy boy, 'Whenever a visitor comes to the house would have his head patted and then the visitor would say:—

"Well, whose little boy are you?"

Tommy, after a little thought as to how to best answer the question, said:—

"I'm a young man in the parlor with his sister Tommy tapped him on the head and piped:—

"Well, whose father are you?"

A Many Fingered Family.

In the Village of Koshlov (Grodno Governorate), Russia, there are over fifty peasants who have more than the usual number of fingers.

According to particulars published in the Novoye Vremya, they all descendants of a peasant who married in the first half of the last century and who had extra fingers on both of his hands.

In the present generation this abnormality is reproduced to the extent of two, three, four or even five additional fingers. Some cases simply show a thumb duplicated from the first joint.

As a result of intermarriage the deformity is spreading to neighboring villages. It dispenses the young men from military service, however sound they may be constitutionally.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Not Quite Ready.

A well known Scotch architect was travelling in Palestine recently, when news reached him of an addition to his family circle.

The happy father immediately provided himself with some water from the Jordan to carry home to his wife, and, on the way, he returned to Scotland.

On the Sunday appointed for the ceremony he duly presented himself at the church, and sought out his bride in order to hand over the precious water to his care. He pulled the flask from his pocket, but the beads held up a warning hand, and came near to whisper:—

"No, no, sir; not the water! May be after the bride's coat!"

Remarkable Experiment.

Sir W. Ramsey believes that something will be done in the nature of not raising corn at all, but letting it grow underground, turning it there, are much to be taken of the gases. He has been in communication with a large colliery proprietor, and that gentleman is making the experiment. It will be started on a very small scale.

American's Biggest Meat-Eaters.

Despite the fact that the census reports show that Americans are steadily drifting toward vegetarianism, they are still (says the fam'l Doctor), the greatest meat-eaters in the world.

Their meat costs every year one hundred million dollars more than their vegetables, including imported vegetable foods. In the aggregate Americans pay every year about $2,500,000,000 for food.

To Build to Georgian Bay.

Ottawa.—It is understood that the government has been approached by certain railway interests, which are prepared to build a line of railway from Montreal to the Georgian Bay, over which the I.C.R. would be given running rights. The matter has not yet been given serious consideration, but it will engage the attention of the ministers this summer.

I got a box of these and there was a change almost after the first dose and in a short time my child was the best of health, and is now a big, good-natured baby.
